DEMOCRATS PAY HIGH PRICE FOR PROGRESSIVE VOTES

Graduate Politicians "Put One Over" on Bourbon Party. "Great Quartette" Get Raised Bid From Time to Time to Deliver Moosers on Great Market Day, November 3rd.

When it comes to doing things commend us to John A. Hendrickson, Joseph J. Bithell, Albert A. Law and John A. Sneddon. These fellows are such artists in the accomplishment of "things political" that they merit the name of the "great quartette" and while Messrs Hendrickson and Bithell may have it a shade over the other two, yet the latter are close seconds and about the only way to size them up without doing one an injustice against the other is to put them all in the same class. It is said that these fellows started out some time ago to trade the Progressive party to the Democrats for and in consideration of the chance to run for some offices, and the way they have succeeded in making the Democrats advance their bid from time to time is something well high remarkable, and now that the deal has been closed the above quartette are as tickled as can be, and well they may be. They are now receiving the congratulations of their friends, and as the Republican is never above congratulating any fellow or set of fellows on the performance of something worth while we take this opportunity of congratulating these manipulators.

From what has been gleaned by our "man around town" the deal looks something like this:

This distinguished quartette started out some time ago to accomplish this purpose, and, wise politicians that they are, they knew it would not do to say right out what they wanted as so they began stalling the deal. Committees of the two parties met simultaneously and it was not long until the Democrats had a proposition ready to present, in fact they had the cards all stacked and the deck ready to shuffle in a very few minutes. But with the above quartette it was different. They began by discussing the ticket and of course started at the Senatorship. Mr. Sneddon said, "We might as well pass that as we have no candidates for it." This brought Mr. Hendrickson to his feet with "how do you know we haven't" and a stern demand that the matter be discussed. Of course Mr. Hendrickson did not know that they would have any candidates but he wanted to give everybody a chance. It was suggested, no doubt, that John take it himself but his business affairs would not permit, and for many reasons he could not think of such a thing. So this important position was passed, and the discussion turned to other places on the ticket. All went harmoniously until the matter of Attorney came up and Attorney Fred W. Crockett's name was suggested. This was like the installation of a lightning rod in a room when the lightning is flashing and the thunder roaring and all at once Mr. Sneddon came up with both feet on the floor and two hands on the table. After Mr. Sneddon had cooled down Attorney Law made some remarks and then the fat was in the fire, and for a time it looked as though gloves and a referee would be ordered. Messrs Hendrickson and Bithell laughed merrily for the plan had worked nicely, and the fake quarrel between Law and Sneddon was sufficient evidence for Jolly Joseph Bithell to leave the room and advise the waiting Democrats that his colleagues would not be able to consult with them that night. Upon the return of Joseph he learned that in order to make it appear as though it were a real quarrel it became necessary for Mr. Sneddon to hike home and all that remained to tell the story of the quarrel was some eloquent Scotch that still echoed from the room, with here and there a faint flash from the lips of the Scotch linguist that would not look well in print as he hurried to his home in the Fourth ward.

From that time until recently the program has been stalled, and stalled, until finally the above quartette has succeeded in getting the Democrats to give them a deal worth while and it is now ordered that in turn for the votes Messrs Hendrickson, Bithell, Law, and Sneddon have agreed to deliver to the Democratic party that this quartette and their followers will be privileged to name two candidates for the legislature, the long term county commissioner, the sheriff, the treasurer and the attorney.

And now that the thing is settled and the Democrats have learned that Mr. Hendrickson would not have the Senatorship, and that Law and Sneddon are bosom friends, and that their great quarrel was a fake, and for the benefit of "democrats only" they are kicking themselves for being so downright easy. And the "great quartette" are laughing in their sleeves at the Democrats for being such "easy marks" and well they may for when it comes to political manipulation the Democrats are just Kindergarteners as compared to this graduated "great quartette."

The accompanying illustration shows General Joffre, commander in chief of the French army, talking with his aids in the field. They are discussing the war moves against the Germans. The illustration also shows a specially drawn map indicating the position of the German army from the time the retreat from Paris began until approximately the present. The Germans were practically at the gates of Paris when suddenly the allies changed their tactics and buried their full strength upon the Kaiser's men. The long German retreat then started.

B. Y. COLLEGE WEEKLY NEWS

Fourth Year Class Bonfire Party the Big Social Event of the Past Week

Arrangements are being made on occasions demand, for new classes and new sections to provide for the enlarged attendance at the B. Y. College. The Nibley Hall at devotional hour is practically filled on the lower floor. This means that the gallery will soon have to be used to provide for the seating.

Wednesday evening was an ideal moonlight night for the Fourth Year's Bonfire party. From the time they commenced to gather for the camp ground until the dispersal, with cheer and song, from Providence bridge they were a congenial, jolly bunch. The account of the affair has been given thus:

The Fourth Year Class met in camp fire assembly in Woods' Field Wednesday evening. There were about fifty members present. "Pa Daines" and some ten other distinguished members of the faculty were present. The meeting opened with a sidewalk prelude on Third South and Main. Students marched to camp grounds. President Nelson presided. Congregation sang, "Oh Here We Are." Memory Gems, by members of the class and faculty. War dance drill, led by Niels Nielsen, followed by silent drill. "Dad Willis" pawed the first potato from the fire. All remained seated while the buns, butter, chocolate, salt, and 'spuds' were passed. Climbing to the bench, playing Pomp, Run Sheep, Prisoners Base, Three Deep, Lap Over and Drop the Coat were next in order, after which all returned to their several places of abode.

Many of the faculty members are going or have gone to Salt Lake to attend conference, the state fair and other attractions. All class work for Monday and Tuesday, however, has been arranged for. A conference vacation, it is thought by the college authorities, would not be desirable so soon after the commencement of school work. Some of those who have gone are: President Jensen, Secretary Norton, Miss Wood, Miss Poulson, Bishop Kemp, Prof. Hickman.

CAMPAIGN OPENS AT LEWISTON SUGAR FACTORY

Lewiston, Oct. 2.—The sugar factory has started its season's campaign and they have every prospect for it to be a profitable year for both the factory and the sugar beet men.

Friday Mrs. Harry Coley entertained the Ladies Literary and Art Club. Mrs. Ida Rogers gave a paper on "There are many houses but few homes. A delicious lunch was served. THE U. A. C. AT THE FAIR

Practically the entire building of the Utah Agricultural College at the State Fair is given over to the exhibits of the boys and girls clubs of the state. The clubs will exhibit the work of the boys and girls, the former displaying exhibits in agricultural pursuits while the latter will put on display sewing, plan of flower garden, a pint jar of every fruit and vegetable canned during the summer months and other home economic work.

Utah ranks second in the club work. In Massachusetts, where the enrollment is the heaviest, are 32,000 boys and girls occupied in the agricultural club work. Utah has 19,000 and comes second and Oregon comes third with 11,000 enrollment.

The clubs are supported by the state and national government. The work is supervised by the Agricultural College. In this state, J. C. Hogenson of the Utah Agricultural College, is state leader.

Every town in Utah has a club organization. The clubs are formed from the boys and girls of the schools of the state and other organizations of young people. In this state, the advancement has been rapid under Mr. Hogenson and his assistants. The exhibits at the state fair of the clubs work in all departments will be one of the features on display and is creating considerable interest thru the state.

FINE PROGRAM

At the conjoint meeting in the First ward at 7:30 o'clock Sunday evening. Prelude by S. B. Mitton. The speaker will be announced later. Vocal solo, Benson Parkinson; piano solo, Enid Rosenegren. The public is invited.

BANQUET FOR PRESS OF STATE

The Manufacturers' Association of Utah will entertain the Utah Newspaper association in its chambers in the Vermont building, Monday evening, October 5, commencing at 7:30 o'clock, with a buffet supper and a musical program.

Invitations have already been extended to the members throughout the state and returns so far received indicate that about forty papers will be represented. In many instances the scribes will be accompanied by their wives. The directors of the Manufacturers Association, some of them attended by their wives will also be present.

Secretary Roscoe W. Eardley, who has the affair in charge and who is arranging the program for the evening, is preparing entertainment for about 100 guests.—Telegraph.

STATEMENT TO THE PUBLIC

Logan, Oct. 1, 1914.

Editor: Many of our leading citizens come to us asking the question: "Are you and ALL the physicians and surgeons of this county interested and supporting the NEW BUDGE HOSPITAL? We consider it but proper and right to make a statement answering their queries through your paper. While we think the building of this hospital a very commendable PRIVATE ENTERPRISE we will say in answering the question, NO—there are a majority of the physicians and surgeons of the county who will have nothing whatever to do with the NEW BUDGE HOSPITAL under its present arrangement. Because it is not built for a GENERAL HOSPITAL.

STUDENT BODY HOLDS MEETING

President Maughan Foretells One of the Greatest Years in History of Organization

The first student body meeting at the Utah Agricultural College was held at 11 o'clock Friday forenoon. President J. Howard Maughan foretold one of the greatest years in the history of the organization, in his short address before the students. Many activities during the year is in store for the collegians, who are enthusiastic.

Class organizations are rapidly gathering together and preparing for the year. Next Friday morning at 11 o'clock has been set for the various classes to meet and organize for the year.

It is expected that a class flag rush will be held on the old athletic field between the freshmen and sophomores. In the future, only organized class rushes will be allowed at the college, President John A. Widtsoe forbidding all class fights that are of the "mob" nature.

MANUFACTURER OF THRASHING MACHINERY

Mr. Linden K. Wood, born and reared at Mendon, Utah, has always had a natural inclination for machinery especially threshing machinery but owing to conditions on an average farm and adverse circumstances, he has been unable to develop his talents as he ought to, however, notwithstanding the many drawbacks, at the age of 4, his first successful

LATE WAR BULLETINS

Oct. 2.—Another day has passed and the situation between the allied armies and the Germans in northern France is still described by the French official announcements as satisfactory, with here and there progress along the line, but not a sufficient advance to the north and east to strike a decisive blow at the German right wing.

The battle on the Aisne gives every indication of being the greatest in history as to duration and losses. British reinforcements, consisting in part of trained East Indian troops and in part of territorials, composed of a Scotch regiment which includes many sharpshooters who have won fame on the ranges in times past, have reached France to strengthen the small British army. Colonial troops also are on the way to the battle front, not a few of whom have seen service in South African and other campaigns.

On both sides there have been innumerable offensive movements, the Germans while relying upon their intrenchments to keep off the advance of the opposing forces, not hesitating to assume the offensive in fierce assaults upon both French and British at short intervals.

Likewise, the Germans are continuing their campaign in Belgium by an attack on the outer defenses of Antwerp and, according to a Rome dispatch, are rushing thousands of troops and an immense supply of war material to the Russian frontier in a supreme effort to ward off the Russian advance.

In the eastern theatre of the war, Germany has taken into her hands the direction of the campaign against the Russian emperor's hosts.

While Berlin officially is silent on
